ADDED SECURITY TO MEET YOUR NEEDS

All printed plastic cards containing personal information are subject to counterfeiting, alteration, duplication and tampering. A protective film—commonly referred to as a laminate—can be applied to cards during the printing process, adding an extra layer of security and extending card life up to 5-10 years.

Zebra's stock laminates provide security, protection and extended card life for a range of card applications in various industries—including higher education, government, hospitality, retail and healthcare. Benefits include:

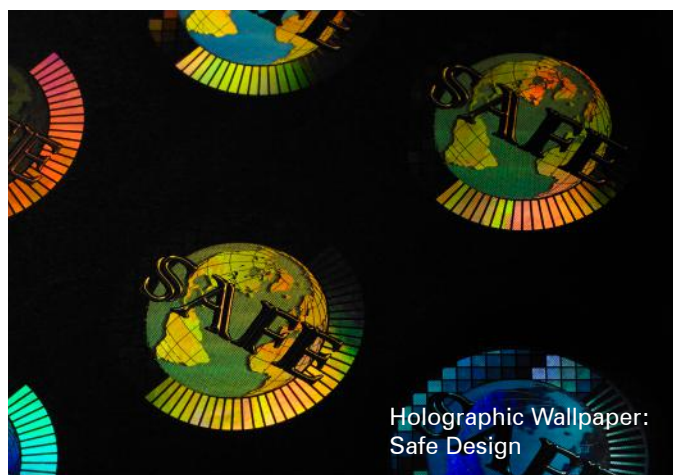

- Tamper-resistant and anti-counterfeiting holographic features to protect against alteration and duplication
- Protection of card images, colors and printed data against fading due to UV rays and from scratching due to daily wear and tear

You can purchase any of our clear and holographic stock laminates with:

- No minimum order
- No origination fee
- Fast delivery

Wasteless Laminate and the Zebra Advantage

Zebra's patented wasteless laminate design features linerless media with a single core and no carrier—eliminating more than 50% of the waste compared to competitor laminates. In addition, Zebra's wasteless laminates offer simple loading/reloading operations and a larger roll capacity, saving money and time. With savings of more than 30% over the competition, our laminates provide the lowest cost-per-card in the industry.

Lamination Security Features

Zebra's holographic stock laminates come in five different designs: World Globe, Lock, Eagle, Safe and Safe 2.

Zebra's laminates offer a range of security features, including:

- Overt visual security elements, which are visible to the human eye, easy to authenticate and difficult to forge
- Covert elements, which require a device to make them readable by the human eye
- Forensic elements, which are the most difficult for a counterfeiter to detect and replicate and are visible only with complex laboratory equipment

ABOUT LAMINATION

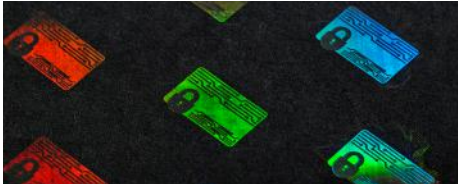

Lamination is the application of a polyester film onto a card's surface to protect it from wear and tear, UV rays and tampering. The film is applied at a very high temperature over the printed text or image on the card. Obtaining the high temperature requires special equipment: a laminator. Laminators utilize hot rollers that adhere the film onto the card. The film is available in a variety of configurations for use on standard or smart cards.
